Greinke's follow-up to his highly acclaimed 2002 release 'Wide View' is a more upbeat ride through richly textured terrain. There's an unobtrusive, yet deeply rhythmic feel to this work lending an utterly appealing liquid motion to Greinke's soundworlds 10 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Ambient, ELECTRONIC: Soundscapes Details: Jeff Greinke is a musician, composer, performer, sound sculptor, and visual artist who is known worldwide for his unique sound. Through a highly developed process of layering, Jeff composes and performs music rich in texture, depth, mood, and subtle detail. Using various acoustic and electronic instruments, found sounds, and extended studio techniques, Jeff sculpts sound worlds that conjure a strong sense of place, hovering somewhere between the exotic and the familiar. Jeff Greinke began composing and performing music in 1980 while studying meteorology at Pennsylvania State University. After moving to Seattle in 1982, Jeff formed the production company and recording label, INTREPID, through which he produced his first LP, Cities in Fog. He has since released over twenty other recordings on various U.S. and European labels. His most recent is Weather From Another Planet, released June 2003 on FWD. Jeff's music can also be heard on numerous compilation recordings. He has composed music for film, video, dance, theatre, radio, and art installations. Jeff has toured extensively throughout the United States and Europe and has performed in China, Canada, and Mexico. He has also been a member of numerous ensembles and is founder of the group LAND. Jeff's current ongoing project is a collaboration with former Sky Cries Mary vocalist Anisa Romero called Hana. In April 2001 they released their second album entitled Omen.
