Quirky acoustic singer songwriter, recorded live to a stereo microphone with fiddle and bazouki/mandolin/bass accompaniment. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, COUNTRY: Country Folk
Details: As a young child in the Bronx, Joe Giacoio was abandoned in a music store and raised by a pack of acoustic guitars. This explains a lot. Joe has won awards for his strange guitar playing, and even stranger songwriting. The lyrics of songs such as "Superman's MidLife Crisis," "A Man's Hair is His Castle", "She Got A Rock" and "Incarcerated Woman" are accompanied by "guitar ninja" heroics reminiscent of Preston Reed and Michael Hedges. Joe is often featured on the "Guitar Gods and Goddesses" stage at the Falcon Ridge Folk festival. He is a not just a member, but the President of the Chest Hair Club for Men and also belongs to the Difficult Last Name Club. He can be found at joegiacoio.com.
