Details: Influenced by various "alternative" electronic genres from the '80s '90s - including Depeche Mode, The The Skinny Puppy - Mannequin Depressives manage to create a sound that all at once seems familiar, and yet, not quite like any other band you've ever heard before. MD's mixture of electronic sounds (actual synthesizers - no soft synths here) with more traditional instrumentation (voice, guitar, occasional acoustic percussion) create a sound that could be described as "electro-acoustic pop" or "post-new wave industrial" - fusing the hi-fi with the lo-fi, and blending pop sensibilities with experimental touches. Their latest release, "Recycle", is a compilation of B-sides, remixes and other previously unreleased material that clearly demonstrates this blend of experimental and synthpop sounds with classic industrial elements.
