Drawing from the classic sounds of surf rock, new wave and rockabilly, but charged with the hard attitude of 70's punk and the cutting edge of electro, The Miles are a force to be reckoned with. But they also love you unconditionally. And they have glasses. Where The Miles go, the party ensues. "A heat-seeking explosion of surf-garage-power pop, wildly energetic, fearless, and as always--fun. Electric hot-jams turning the front of the stage into a dance-a-thon. The Miles equals a noisy, sweaty, celebration." "pyrotechnic dance-punk that set the place on fire, scorching rockabilly thunder, a musical high-speed car chase blazing a trail of smoke and blinding fumes. Sizzling and dazzling. Place your money on The Miles. These cool-cats are on onto bigger and better things." -Lonely Vagabond, Exclaim "They don't come much tighter or more appealingly frantic than this trio of 17-year-old Toronto lads, who could very well dethrone Tokyo Police Club as the city's hottest high-school-spawned ingenues." "An impossibly disciplined guitar/drums/keyboards attack squad. Cute as hell, too. Lock up your daughters." -Ben Rayner, Toronto Star "Sometimes you just can feel something about a band, and that something is really hard to explain in a tangible way. But you know -- or at least, you think you know -- that if this band can keep going down the path its on, it is destined for bigger and better things. For me, the Miles are one of these bands." -Dan Wolovick, Twomaymonolouges
