Five years ago a cruel clause in his father's will forced Ayden Judson into marriage to keep the family company, and to protect that business from his stepmother's machinations, Ayden decided to live without love. But when handsome gallery owner Simon Gibson literally falls into Ayden's lap on a transatlantic flight, he shakes Ayden's resolve, and by the time they land, Ayden knows he doesn't want to live without Simon. Simon, burned before by a married man, refuses to hide. So once more, Ayden must choose between happiness for himself and the good of the company-threatened by how dark his stepmother's plans have become-except Ayden knows he'll give up all the money and success in the world just to have Simon in his arms again.
