

The Making Of A European Constitution

DOWNLOAD HERE

1;Contents;6 2;European Constitutionalism at the Crossroads;8 2.1;1. Introduction: Writing a Book on European Constitutionalism in Times of Crisis;8 2.2;2. Old Treaties, New Constitution?;13 2.3;3. Values, Norms and Identities;14 2.4;4. The Union s Competences: Expanding Tasks towards a State- like Agenda;17 2.5;5. The Institutional Architecture: a Restated Equilibrium on a Higher Level;20 2.6;6. And Now? The Conundrums of Constitutionalising Power;23 2.7;7. References;30 3;Part I: The Making of a European Constitution: Processes and Methods;34 3.1;The Constitutionalisation of the European Union Without the Constitutional Treaty;36 3.1.1;1. Introduction;36 3.1.2;2. What is a Constitution?;38 3.1.3;3. The European Constitution without a State;44 3.1.4;4. The Constitutionalisation of European Law up to the Adoption of the Constitutional Treaty of 2004;47 3.1.5;5. The Constitutional Treaty of 2004 Overcomes the Outdated Dichotomy Between Contract and Constitution;54 3.1.6;6. The Constitutionalisation of the Treaty Revision Procedure;59 3.1.7;7. Benefits of the Constitutionalist Reconstruction of European Law;63 3.1.8;8. References;64 3.2;Getting to a European Constitution: From Fischer to the IGC;69 3.2.1;1. Introduction;69 3.2.2;2. An Analytical Framework;70 3.2.3;3. Phase I: Competing Frames;72 3.2.4;4. Phase II: Agenda Setting;74 3.2.5;5. Phase III: The Convention Phase;76 3.2.6;6. Phase IV: From Convention to IGC;78 3.2.7;7. Getting to a Constitution;86 3.2.8;8. Conclusions;88 3.2.9;9. References;89 3.3;The Convention Method: An Institutional Device for Consensus-building;91 3.3.1;1. Introduction;91 3.3.2;2. A Note on Methods: Fieldwork and Data;95 3.3.3;3. From Listening to Consensus : Elements of the Convention Method;96 3.3.4;4. Conclusions;113 3.3.5;5. References;117 3.4;Deliberation and Compromise in the Shadow of Bargaining;121 3.4.1;1. The EU s Constitutional Convention and European System development;121 3.4.2;2. Issue Tracking European Demos as a Prerequisite or an Outcome of European Integration?;123 3.4.3;3. The Need for Sustainable Debate and the Convention as its Medium;125 3.4.4;4. Conclusions: System Change beyond the Convention;147 3.4.5;5. The Convention was a Deliberative Process and a Deliberative Sequence;150 3.4.6;6. References;153 3.5;The Dynamics of the Two-Level Process of Constitution Building;157 3.5.1;1. Analyzing European Constitution Building;157 3.5.2;2. Two-level Games and the Constitution Building Process;159 3.5.3;3. Delegation, Strategies and Collective Actors;164 3.5.4;4. Studying the Process of European Constitution Building;166 3.5.5;5. References;172 4;Part II: The Making of a European Constitution: Influences and Perceptions;174 4.1;The Impact of Constitutional Traditions on the EU-Reform Discourse in Austria, France, Germany and the UK;176 4.1.1;1. Introduction;176 4.1.2;2. The Method: A Three Dimensional Research Design;178 4.1.3;3. National Conceptions of Sovereignty and the Shape of a Future European Constitution;180 4.1.4;4. Executive Legislative Relationships and the Introduction of a Bicameral System?;185 4.1.5;5. National Constitutional Arrangements and the Division of Competences in the EU;192 4.1.6;6. Conclusion: The Impact of National Traditions Two Pathways;195 4.1.7;7. References;196 4.2;Political Elites and the Future of Europe: The Views of MPs and MEPs;201 4.2.1;1. Introduction;201 4.2.2;2. Data;202 4.2.3;3. Positions of MPs and MEPs towards European integration;205 4.2.4;4. Results;207 4.2.5;5. Conclusion;213 4.2.6;6. References;214 4.3;Publicized Discourses on the Post-Nice Process;217 4.3.1;1. Public Discourse in Context: Legitimacy and Democracy in the EU;217 4.3.2;2. Public Discourse as a Legitimizing and De-legitimizing Force;220 4.3.3;3. The Perceived Utility of Different Forms of Public Discourse in the EU Context;221 4.3.4;4. Political System Development and Legitimacy: The Actual Role of Public 1;Contents;6 2;European Constitutionalism at the Crossroads;8 2.1;1. Introduction: Writing a Book on European Constitutionalism in Times of Crisis;8 2.2;2. Old Treaties, New Constitution?;13 2.3;3. Values, Norms and Identities;14 2.4;4. The Union s Competences: Expanding Tasks towards a State- like Agenda;17 2.5;5. The Institutional Architecture: a Restated Equilibrium on a Higher Level;20 2.6;6. And Now? The Conundrums of Constitutionalising Power;23 2.7;7. References;30 3;Part I: The Making of a European Constitution: Processes and Methods;34 3.1;The Constitutionalisation of the European Union Without the Constitutional Treaty;36 3.1.1;1. Introduction;36 3.1.2;2. What is a Constitution?;38 3.1.3;3. The European Constitution without a State;44 3.1.4;4. The Constitutionalisation of European Law up to the Adoption of the Constitutional Treaty of 2004;47 3.1.5;5. The Constitutional Treaty of 2004 Overcomes the Outdated Dichotomy Between Contract and Constitution;54 3.1.6;6. The Constitutionalisation of the Treaty Revision Procedure;59 3.1.7;7. Benefits of the Constitutionalist Reconstruction of European Law;63 3.1.8;8. References;64 3.2;Getting to a European Constitution: From Fischer to the IGC;69 3.2.1;1. Introduction;69 3.2.2;2. An Analytical Framework;70 3.2.3;3. Phase I: Competing Frames;72 3.2.4;4. Phase II: Agenda Setting;74 3.2.5;5. Phase III: The Convention Phase;76

3.2.6;6. Phase IV: From Convention to IGC;78 3.2.7;7. Getting to a Constitution;86 3.2.8;8. Conclusions;88 3.2.9;9. References;89 3.3;The Convention Method: An Institutional Device for Consensus-building;91 3.3.1;1. Introduction;91 3.3.2;2. A Note on Methods: Fieldwork and Data;95 3.3.3;3. From Listening to Consensus : Elements of the Convention Method;96 3.3.4;4. Conclusions;113 3.3.5;5. References;117 3.4;Deliberation and Compromise in the Shadow of Bargaining;121 3.4.1;1. The EU s Constitutional Convention and European System development;121 3.4.2;2. Issue Tracking European Demos as a Prerequisite or an Outcome of European Integration?;123 3.4.3;3. The Need for Sustainable Debate and the Convention as its Medium;125 3.4.4;4. Conclusions: System Change beyond the Convention;147 3.4.5;5. The Convention was a Deliberative Process and a Deliberative Sequence;150 3.4.6;6. References;153 3.5;The Dynamics of the Two-Level Process of Constitution Building;157 3.5.1;1. Analyzing European Constitution Building;157 3.5.2;2. Two-level Games and the Constitution Building Process;159 3.5.3;3. Delegation, Strategies and Collective Actors;164 3.5.4;4. Studying the Process of European Constitution Building;166 3.5.5;5. References;172 4;Part II: The Making of a European Constitution: Influences and Perceptions;174 4.1;The Impact of Constitutional Traditions on the EU-Reform Discourse in Austria, France, Germany and the UK;176 4.1.1;1. Introduction;176 4.1.2;2. The Method: A Three Dimensional Research Design;178 4.1.3;3. National Conceptions of Sovereignty and the Shape of a Future European Constitution;180 4.1.4;4. Executive Legislative Relationships and the Introduction of a Bicameral System?;185 4.1.5;5. National Constitutional Arrangements and the Division of Competences in the EU;192 4.1.6;6. Conclusion: The Impact of National Traditions Two Pathways;195 4.1.7;7. References;196 4.2;Political Elites and the Future of Europe: The Views of MPs and MEPs;201 4.2.1;1. Introduction;201 4.2.2;2. Data;202 4.2.3;3. Positions of MPs and MEPs towards European integration;205 4.2.4;4. Results;207 4.2.5;5. Conclusion;213 4.2.6;6. References;214 4.3;Publicized Discourses on the Post-Nice Process;217 4.3.1;1. Public Discourse in Context: Legitimacy and Democracy in the EU;217 4.3.2;2. Public Discourse as a Legitimizing and De-legitimizing Force;220 4.3.3;3. The Perceived Utility of Different Forms of Public Discourse in the EU Context;221 4.3.4;4. Political System Development and Legitimacy: The Actual Role of Public EAN/ISBN : 9783531900957 Publisher(s): VS Verlag Discussed keywords: Europäische Union (EU) Format: ePub/PDF Author(s): Puntsher Riekman, Sonja - Wessels, Wolfgang

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals:

The Making Of A European Constitution