Are You Ready to Leave A Legacy? Pardon me while I go a little over the top and get right to the point When you take your last breath on this earth and you pass on to the after life and you have to stand before your God are you going to be proud of your life or in tears because you realize you wasted it? I told you I wasn't going to pull any punches. This is serious. Your life is serious. You've been blessed with God-given talents and skills to improve the quality of your lifestyle by improving the quality of others lives. It's such a shame to know that 95% never get the financial freedom necessary to truly pursue their passionate purpose. Don't be one of the 95. Follow the simple steps in my Unleash the Book Within audio book to move yourself into that top 5 who really live not just survive this life. Let me ask you a quick question: Have you ever walked along the beach just down next to where the water rolls up onto the shore? As your foot lifts from the sand, you can for just a moment see your footprint embedded in the earth. But then, within a blink of an eye, the sand fills in upon itself and your footprint is gone. The beach surface is smooth again as if you had not left your footprint there just seconds before. Do you want that to be an example of your life? I don't. I want to create something a legacy that lives on long after I leave this earth. Dale Carnegie said, I want to spend half my life amassing as much money as I can and the other half giving it all away. And he did. He understood the concept that the purpose of money is merely to trade it for the things you want and the things you want to do with your life. Let me make this perfectly clear. You will never be able to truly live, truly able to enjoy life, truly able to make a difference until you achieve financial independence. So the question I have to ask you is Are you ready to pursue financial independence and leave your legacy or are you willing to just leave? Discover Everything You Need to Know to Write a Profitable Book Even If You Have No Previous Writing or Publishing Experience!
