A staggeringly beautiful use of orchestra and digital sound processing that speaks to very core of humanity. 6 MP3 Songs CLASSICAL: Virtual Orchestra, CLASSICAL: Modernist Details: This release is currently available from out Digital Download partners ONLY. See links to left for list. DANN GLENN Symphony No. 6 (The Galatic Symphony) This is the sixth in a series of six works by the composer Glenn. No. 6 may be the finest example of Glenn's brilliant use of digital sound processing and full orchestra. The first two movements offer-up a completely atonal excursion into outer space, ultimately and immediately pivoting into a staggeringly beautiful use of the orchestra. Once asked what his greatest hopes for this incomparable work were, Glenn replied, "It would be wonderful if an Astronaut traveling through space were to listen to this music, while gazing out at the Universe." For those of us not fortunate or bold enough to have space travel in our immediate plans, listening to this breathtaking music will be a cerebral and spiritual journey of limitless proportion. Renowned as a guitarist, Glenn pleasantly surprises the listener with a stunning performance at the Steinway Grand Piano, in Movement 5 dedicated to his friend, the late great Jaco Pastorius. ("The Comet Jaco.") Glenn's gift for creating astonishing imagery in the listener's mind, is key to the complete experience. You won't need a spacesuit or clearance from Mission Control...just the desire to go where no man has gone before; the depths of your own imagination. Written and Performed by Dann Glenn Produced and Mastered by: Jon Pomplin Cover Art: Carey Miller Declassified Records
