Here's a collection of fun, up-tempo, and intelligent songs children love! Take a look at what the reviewers have to say... "The catchy melodies and lyrics on this album will have young listeners swinging', swayin', tappin', and singin' along." - School Library Journal "This is altogether a well-done, enjoyable, and unique recording." - Booklist For years, children's singer/songwriter/poet Eric Ode (Pronounced Oh-dee) has been sharing music with children and their families all across and outside of the Pacific Northwest. In addition to regularly performing for schools, libraries, and festivals, he's performed in Japan several times, has recorded for and appeared on Canadian children's television, and performs regularly at Remlinger Farms family fun park in Carnation, Washington. Eric's original music is always upbeat and positive, his programs highly interactive and meant for group participation, and his message one of joy and respect. "Trash Can" marks Eric's third album for children and was recorded using everything from electric and acoustic guitars and bass to drums and percussion to saxophone and a full brass section. This is a FUN album! (lyrics are included in liner notes)
