Details: From atmospheres full of magic and charm of books like "The Lord of The Rings" or "The Silmarillion" has born the idea to make a music genre that summons that kind of feeling typical of Tolkien's work, with the same ancient and mysterious "flavor", to play "in the elvish way" the charming role of the bard. From the figures of the bard and the elves described by the English writer our project takes its deepest inspiration. In particular our idea focuses on elves of the Galadhrim, peculiar for their beauty full of melancholy and ancient sorrow to have been condemned to an eternal exile from their original land that lies in the west beyond the huge and impassable "sundering sea". Toward west their eyes are always set, the memories of pure green plains and luxuriant woods of their land is still deep inside their hearts and it is shown in their deeds here in the mortal lands. They can only sing of that beauty to maintain strong the memory in their minds and to continue to pursue the secret hope to see one day the holy land where they have awoken.
