Retro Lounge World Pop 15 MP3 Songs EASY LISTENING: Lounge, POP: Beatles-pop Details:
Produced By Riley McMahon Songs By Spottiswoode S&M is the lovechild of Spottiswoode McMahon, a couple of New York beatniks. They have performed S&M together here and there. Spottiswoode usually performs with a Spanish guitar while McMahon plucks, bangs and blows on this and that. Cozy in the comfort of McMahons New Warsaw studio parlor in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, they invited some of their favorite musicians to perform S&M with them. Paul Ossola (Buddy Guy, John Hiatt) brought his double bass Todd Reynolds (Bang On A Can, Steve Reich, Joe Jackson) brought several dozen violins Bruce Martin (Tom Tom Club, Wild Colonials) brought his tablas and bongos Kenny White (Sean Colvin, solo maestro) brought a grand piano Candace De Bartolo and Kevin Cordt (Spottiswoode His Enemies) brought a sax and a trumpet Trevor Exter brought a cello and some Portuguese Many other talented and sexy folk shared instruments, accents and a good old-fashioned submissive sense of adventure Spottiswoode arrived with a Polish kielbasa and a lot of tunes McMahon pulled out all his toys and then turned on his microwave oven The result? An orgiastic smorgasbord of song. Stories of love, disillusionment, Ukrainians, Parisians, New Yorkers, Londoners, Scots, Cubans, Indians, Brazilians, children, parents, gypsies, and other more interesting stuff. A rich and seamless journey through women, continents and past lives.

----- While he is not performing S&M, Spottiswoode fronts the cult NYC band, Spottiswoode His Enemies. In addition to being one of Spottiswoodes Enemies, Riley McMahon is one of the busiest musicians and producers in New York City.
