Rock for peace and freedom; in the musical tradition of the great guitar heroes from the 1960's to now, and with a unique message from a Peacemaker. 10 MP3 Songs ROCK: Classic Rock, ROCK: Hard Rock

Details: Dan Litwin has been playing guitar since 1970. He grew up being influenced by the classic rock guitarists, who all contributed to his own style of guitar playing and songwriting. He says his influences range from Jimi Hendrix and Ritchie Blackmore, right on up to Van Halen and on over to Stevie Ray. But music wasn't the only thing to capture Dan's attention, having been born in California just in time to witness the peace movement of the 1960's. He believes that we should not throw out the 1960's baby (peace) with the bathwater (whatever you did in the 60's you now regret). It was about peace, love, and MUSIC! Dan saw that the music of the 1960's was part of a real peace movement. Back then, we knew that Big Brother was the problem, not the solution. We railed against the machine. We even had slogans like "Do your own thing". We knew better than to go running to Big Brother to help solve our problems. The machine was the problem - and still is. Could music lovers (like you) help Dan revive that truly American spirit of waging peace? Could we inspire those who remember that Big Brother is still the problem, and not the solution? With the hope that we can, Dan Litwin presents Peacemakers - rock for peace and freedom. Hear the samples today. Buy the CD. While you're rocking out to 10 great new songs, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that you've helped one Peacemaker in his quest to challenge Big Brother. Because real peacemakers don't rule...
