Dreamy chilled downtempo and triphop with female vocals 14 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Down Tempo, ELECTRONIC: Trip Hop Details: The samples on CDBaby are only 2 minutes each, so to get a feel for what the album really has to offer we suggest you download the full album from the podcast. Listen to and download a lo-fi 64kbs version of the entire album (minus Nights in White Satin) on our podcast page: dreamingblue.libsyn.com/ On our debut, we were trying to find our way. We were both on the same wavelength when we wrote this album. We experimented with more complex melodies, vocals and production. The result is a much more focused and accessible album than our first effort. We started writing this album in January 2004 while we were still making our debut album. The first song written was "Life has just begun" and the last song was "Why can't" in August 2005. Unlike our debut album which took 6 months to mix and master, this one only took 2 months.
