The Bateau Bay, Australia, resident has been honing his songwriting and singing skills for the past 5 years. With the release of his second album, Central Avenue, and a new band, Working Man's Dream, he is certain to attract a whole new audience to his music.

Central Avenue is a multi layered collection of tracks penned and performed by Bob Pigott that reflects the many facets of his song writing talent with his often wry look at life and all it's associated highs, lows, and uncertainties. From the award winning "Auntie Bonnie" to the rocky current single "Too Much Lust", Central Avenue is a great new CD with something for every country music aficionado. "Too Much Lust," written by Bob Pigott, is simply a song about the wild, ultimate passion you feel when you're in love. The person in the song is so crazy in love he is experiencing feelings he's never had before. "This song is so wild," says Bob Pigott, "it jumps out of the tune and invades your soul!" Bob Pigott may be a local government employee by day, but when night falls, a metamorphosis takes place. In place of a shirt and tie, it's jeans and a t-shirt; instead of a computer work station, it's a guitar; instead of dealing with angry customers who haven't had their garbage picked up, it's crooning sweet country ballads or cranking out up-tempo songs to appreciative crowds. Take a stroll down Central Avenue with Bob Pigott. Listen to a rising name on the Australian Country Music Scene.
