Born and raised in the burbs of New Jersey, it is tough to come by the quiet inspiration to write many of the pieces on here, but the experiences of the area on the outskirts of Philadelphia have offered enough--a warm Winter Rain from what used to be snow, The Point of land jutting out of the inlet from Point Pleasant, or driving Out of the Night of the city back to his abode. He listens to the music of any situation and finds inspiration therein. Edward spent many nights contemplating each and every note on this album in his studio, and now presents himself to you, through his music.
