Deep, lush, poetic songs for grown-ups. 6 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, FOLK: Folk Pop Details: Kathleen Tracy dives deep on this lush, poetic offering. Original instrumentation includes Kathleen on ukelele and charango, Jami Seiber on cello and Linda Severt on percussion, creating a rich and unique sonic tapestry, with Kathleens honest and intimate vocals right down the middle. Or in the case of When I Was a Horse, soaring into the stratosphere when she incorporates overtone singing into the arrangement. The title song "Calling the Dragons Home" is a beautiful and haunting melding of music and lyrics to create a strikingly unique take on the age-old break-up song. Busy Little Monkey conveys the ambivalence of motherhood, the most healing and humiliating experience of my life so far. Most of these lyrics started out as conversations with myself during a really wrenching time in my life, as a way of expanding the container of my experience, she says. They seem to be useful songs for other people as well. These are songs for grown-ups, songs about loss, vulnerability, insight and transformation.
