Many local and national Hip-Hop artists participated in these projects, including Happy Perez, Lil Keke, Slim Thug, ESG and Big Hawk. Helping make music - from behind the scenes so to speak -- whetted Lil Js appetite and soon he decided to try his own hand and record his own album. For his first solo album, Time 4 Change, Lil J decided that he wanted to do something that had never been .1-done before -- mix Hip-Hop and Norteo/Tejano music. He wanted to add the flavor of the accordion to combine the sounds of Hip-Hop and Norteo/Tejano. To do so, LiD decided to approach the best, done before mix Hip-Hop and Norteno/Tejano music. He wanted to add the flavor fo the accordion to combine the sounds of Hip-Hop and Norteno/Tejano. To do so, Lil J - Da Mex Connect decided to approach the best, El Rey Del Accordion, Ramon Ayala. Lil Js first single is a remake of Mr. Ayalas classic hit Un Puo de Tierra -- Hip-Hop style. The single is a unique fusion of Hip-Hop and Norteo/Tejano music along with the collaboration of, Grammy award winning artist, Ramon Ayala and producer Russell Lee, most known for his work with current R B sensations Natalie, Frankie J and recent Top Ten Billboard artist Baby Bash. This new fusion of sound has become one of the most sought after sounds by todays Latin youth. The single titled, Un Puno de Tierra 04 has been regarded as a history making single and Latin Hip-Hop at its next level. Lil Js second single, Sexy Ladies has virtually become the hottest club song in the Texas club scene. Once again Lil J accomplished another unique sound for Sexy Ladles with his Regaetone and Southern Crunk fusion. Not only has Sexy Ladies achieved club approval, it has also been added to several radio mix shows (see BDS). To top it off, Lil J -

Da Mex Connect along with Killa Kyleon of the Boss Hogg Outlawz unleashed the street single Right Here. Lil J uses his unique blend of latin, street, and gruff vocals, combined with Killas insane flow classic Boss Hogg delivery together on one track to further define Houstons unique sound that has recently captivated audiences throughout the Hip-Hop world. This recent fusion of sound has become a huge success in a short time, getting spins and requests at radio stations from the West Coast, across Texas, and down to Southern Florida (see BDS). Ever since the album has been released, the first three singles have gotten airplay in two genres, Urban radio and Mexican Regional, in the Southern States, and nationwide via Pocos Pero Locos, Street Fuego and Choppaholix, nationally syndicated radio programs (see BDS) as well as video play for Un Puno De Tierra 04 and Sexy Ladies on Mun2. As evidenced by his pioneering collaboration with Mr. Ayala, and consistent with his philosophy of making original and exciting music, LII Js fans can expect the rest of the album to include classics for the streets to enjoy.
