AAA-radio-ready acoustic rock captured live, plus bonus material of the full band Live at Red Rocks Amphitheatre. 6 MP3 Songs POP: Power Pop, ROCK: Acoustic Details: The Trampolines are a AAA-pop/rock band based in Denver Colorado known for their acoustic-based original songs and vocal harmonies. The Trampolines released their debut EP, "THE TRAMPOLINES" in August of 2005 to a sold-out audience at the world famous Red Rocks Amphitheatre, and have since sold 3,000+ copies of the disc. It charted with Nielsen Soundscan for more than 14 weeks in the state of Colorado and was number #21 in over-all sales for the year end of 2005. In 2006, The Trampolines received significant airplay with the songs "1963" "Bring Me Down" and also toured the West Coast twice. We were also featured on several summer festivals (such as Southpark Music Fest, Midwest Music Summit Hyperactive). In 2007 The Trampolines started the festival season with performances in Austin, TX at SXSW and Red Gorilla Festival, another wildly successful week-long tour of the west coast, and several major festival appearances and radio promotions in and around Colorado. The songs "Dried Flowers" and "1963" aired on MTV in January 2007 as support music for The Real World: Denver and were featured on MTV.COM during the airing run. Currently, the band is working on a recording of new material and are proud to present this remarkable audio-visual event, ONE NIGHT LIVE, captured on film at The Walnut Room in Denver, CO in late 2006. Also, we're honored to share video segments from our landmark sold-out Red Rocks Amphitheatre performance, with extra footage from before and after the show.
