These are mostly spoken word pieces with a couple of instrumentals and on some I use special sound effects. 27 MP3 Songs FOLK: Political, SPOKEN WORD: Poetry Details: Since my song track list is usually about 20-30 songs or more one day I thought Why not have the songs alphabetical. So these are songs a made up around the time of this album in alphabetical order and I should note I was working on these songs the summer of 2001 through 2004 when I finale recorded them. This CD is part of my last recording session at Randy's recording. She's the Only Dandelion in my Whole World was written for my wife Robin and is the song I play at our Wedding which was on State street at Sunrise Community Church which no longer meets on State street. My Baby is a song I wrote for Simon who is now 4 as of April 24, 2006 and will be going to preschool in the fall. Vacuum Rap was a song I had borrowed a vacuum for at Randy's Recording. The song Want To Be A Librarian ? was inspire from a friend I knew from the U.W. who since has gone and moved away. At the time of the writing my friend Luke from the U.W. was working at the U.W. library. Free Bird was written because everyone kept saying play Free Bird and after I wrote it Southern Rock fans had to admit it was not what they wanted but it was a fun cute lyric but not at all the Southern Rock tune Free Bird. Let's Loiter went way beyond what I expected for it. It originally was just a song I was inspired to write because I was talking to this guy on State street about the no loitering law ordeniance and I said what if I wrote a song to tell people to disobey it. The next thing I knew I was singing it. Since the recording I think they have not inforce the law as much here. The song got played on Dr Demento twice which I never expected. If Poeple want to know more about Dr Demento check out drdementoand if they want to request my music on the show they can at clamhead.com/drd.php but I prefer you either buy the CD here or wait a little while and it will soon be in the download stores.
