Pam plays an engaging mixture of original and traditional dance tunes on fiddle and Appalachian dulcimer, accompanied by hammered dulcimer, Celtic harp, accordion, and an assortment of other instruments. 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Traditional Folk, COUNTRY: Bluegrass Details: Pam Weeks is an outstanding fiddler, Appalachian dulcimer player, singer, and tunesmith from Western Maine. Best known as a fiddler and mountain dulcimer player with the Maine contradance band, Scrod Pudding, she is also a multi-instrumentalist who plays and sings traditionally-based folk (or "roots") music. Pam is fiddler and singer in the Maine-based Cajun dance band, Jimmyjo the Jumbol'ayuhs, sings and plays several instruments in the folk trio, Ti' Acadie, and performs solo or with guitar player and caller Bill Olson. Pam is an accomplished tunesmith and has composed scores of tunes, from lively jigs and reels, to entrancing airs and beautiful waltzes. Waiting for the Perseids particularly features Pam's fiddling and includes many of her own compositions that evoke images of the beauty of rural Maine.
