In the mean time, please listen to the clips to the left, read the review below and enjoy your purchase... Featuring Fall Away, Release Absence REVIEW FROM SHAKE MAGAZINE (Nashville, TN) The Silent Partner's debut release, "Fall Away" can best be described as hard driving power piano rock combined with strong melodies and graceful arrangements. The marriage of lyrical vocals, piano as the focal instrument, and harder alternative music have molded what is a unique and energy driven style. Front man and writer Brad Shaw has a great sense of developing a song from beginning to end as though it is a story being told. His lyrics are no exception. In the title track of the album, "Fall Away", you can hear Shaw's vocals and lyrics coming at you with power. That and an exceptionally catchy melody makes me believe you might just hear this one on the radio. Additionally, the entire album's production is top notch, much to the caliber of the artists that Shaw has shared the stage with (including Jason Mraz, Michelle Penn and the Go Go's) For an Indie artist, this album is a diamond in the rough. Seldom will you see such great production and songwriting incorporated together. If piano and alternative rock are your thing, I suggest you get your hands on this album when it comes out later this year. - Review from Shake Magazine 2004 If you would like to find out more information about The Silent Partner and Bradford Shaw, please visit their websites at thesilentpartnerorbradfordshaw.com
