Details: Great Britmusic is proud to announce the launch of their new flagship release, the classic Dan Greenaway album Find Your Way. Dan Greenaway is a singer, songwriter and musician born in Worcester, England. His main instrument is the guitar, and throughout the summer Dan has focused on the recording of his acoustic album entitled Find Your Way. Intimate in its nature, it contains fourteen tracks of acoustic guitar and vocal performances from Dan, many of which include percussion, violin, cello, piano and backing vocals from guest musicians. Each delicate whisper and spine tingling roar has been slowly poured over an ice-cool production, creating an elixir that will delight the listener with every sip. The album was produced by Rob Kendrick, former guitarist of both the English rock band Trapeze and its Welsh counterpart Budgie. Great Britmusic invites you to step through the looking glass and discover a place that is home to the very best of British music. In association with their U.S. partners, the sounds of Great Britmusic are unfurled on distant shores. From coast to coast, Find Your Way will guide you through all seasons and emerge as a hot summer album. Find Dan Greenaway, and then lose yourself again in more Great Britmusic.
