15 MP3 Songs URBAN/R&B: R&B Rap mix, URBAN/R&B: Soul Details: Ive always felt very connected to the Urban/R&B contemporary rhythms. Born into a world of music, Demetrie Doiron first began singing and playing the drums at a very early age for his church choir. In 1987, he co-wrote his first song entitled Crazy with an up and coming R&B artist, Ryan Steele. In the early 90s, Doiron accepted an internship at Pajamas Studios as a Studio Engineer and learned much about all aspects of the industry. In his free time he made some preliminary recordings at Sound Farm, Live Oaks, and Fantasy Studios located in the Bay Area and worked diligently on bringing it all together. Doiron established his own studio, Protection Records, in 1995 with his good friend, Marcus Gore, AKA Emgee. Together they wrote, arranged, and produced several pieces. Joining ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) in 1999, Doiron went on to establish Don Amechi Muzic publishing in 2000 and later developed his own record label, DeMechi Music Group, in 2001. In the fall of 2005 Doiron released his debut compilation, Closer. Individually writing, producing, engineering, and arranging each song on this CD, he focuses on the slower sounds of the R&B mainstream. Doiron personally relates that Closer was inspired by the female relationships that occurred throughout his life, focusing on the emotions involved in breaking up and getting back together. He feels very passionately about his work and believes that in all aspects of life there is music and it is through these experiences that you essentially become more aware of your individual self. You can purchase a copy of Closer at CDBaby or towerrecords.com. Doiron is currently working on his new album, In This For Life, which will be released soon.
