Show all album songs: Earth Song Songs Details: James Taylor is a classically trained musician regarded as a virtuoso by his contemporaries for his compositions for instruments like the hammered dulcimer and the pipe organ. James Taylor has used his talents in combining solo improvisational instrumental pieces with natural sounds recorded in various locations around the lower peninsular of the State of Michigan in the United States. Recently interviewed for the Detroit News and an appearance on a local radio talk show has helped James to showcase his latest CD Earth Song, Voices of Michigan. As humans progressed into the machine age, they slowly began to detach themselves from the rhythms of nature. The frequencies of mechanized and electronic rhythms now replace those naturally regulating rhythms often resulting in stress. Many, including Native Americans understand the importance of maintaining these natural rhythms for a healthy mind and spirit. Relax and enjoy the sounds of nature accompanied by improvisational classical instrumental compositions. 15 of all annual CD sales are donated to the Michigan Wildlife Fund.
