Details: A note by the creators of PROBE: Said Amin-Tinat Royah Bahrami Composing is probably the ultimate form of self expression in that it employs all the various elements of ones musical background as well as the other influences of ones life. For us two, these varied influences go as far back into childhood as mothers singing of a lullaby and fathers playing of the violin or painting on a canvas to the more recent events such as our first jam session back in January, 1998. In order for our diverse backgrounds and different musical styles to merge into one homogeneous entity we had to probe into many other styles of music which include Spanish gypsy, American jazz, Gamelan music of south east Asia, Afro-Cuban rhythms, and Raga and rhythmic cycles of India. We are both very grateful to Debu Nayak for his rhythmic innovations on tabla, Humayun Ferzad for his wondrous vocal improvisations and Barry Dove for his masterful accomplishments on all the percussion instruments. Without their help the music on this album might not have been realized in its present form. We like to thank our families and friends for their support and dedicate this album to all of our loved ones. Newspaper and brunch. Intricate instrumental compositions that draws from various ethnic cultures. The principles, composer Said Amintinat and santur arranger Royah Bahrami are both classically trained musicians originally from Iran. Collaborators Barry Dove, (U.S. born percussionist), Afghanistan native Humayun Ferzad (vocals) and tabla player Debu Nayak, originally from India, round out the ensemble. By exploring the music of their homelands alone, this album spans the globe. But Probe goes further. The ensemble delves into Spanish gypsy traditional, American jazz, Gamelan music from Southeast Asia, Afro Cuban rhythms and Raga cycles from India. Probe is like listening to a four act play, where the music is the star. The compositions move you through each act. AUDIO GLIPHIX music review magazine, 1999 "Weeping Clown is very beautiful, as, indeed, was your whole CD. I'm very impressed touched by your work. OASIS CD Manufacturing, 1999 Probe - This release marks the debut of Iranian duo Said Amintinat (guitar) and Roya Bahrami (santur). They present a sparkling and rhythmically sophisticated mix of new age, Persian, Indian, Gypsy, and jazz musics. The two play well off of each other, and get very capable help from Barry Dove (percussion), Humayun Ferzad (vocals and harmonium), and Debu Nayak (tabla). Fans of Oregon will find much to like here.
