Peter Gabriel, Sountrack, Sweeping Live Strings, Midnight Express, 17 MP3 Songs POP: with Live-band Production, WORLD: World Fusion Details: Quinn is a recording artist on Orison Records and also composes music for television and film. Since graduating from the New England Conservatory of Music with a Bachelor's Degree in Jazz Performance, he's collaborated with such notable artists as Tracy Chapman, Bruce Springsteen, REM, Ice-T, Michael Brook, Mitchell Froom, Paula Cole, Belinda Carlisle and East Mountain South. In 1994 his critically acclaimed debut CD Quinn was released and charted number two on Virgin Megastore's 'Top 30'. It remained there for nine months with four of its songs being featured in the movies Silent Trigger in 1994 and Father (Winner of Damah Film Festival Award) in 2001. In 1996 his second CD Ecstasy in Avila, which included the song Sacred Revelation, aired on radio nationwide and most notably on Morning Becomes Eclectic. It charted both on the Gavin and CMJ charts and was also featured on several compilation CDs, including Elevation II, Respirar II and Tribal Dreaming. His third CD called The Solemn Vow, released in 1998, was conceived as a modern world opera ballet and merged world music and classical music together into a very unique hybrid. In 2000 he released his fourth CD called Chasing Silence on his own independent label called Orison Records. Many of its tracks are currently played on Mystic Radio.com. In 2003 Orison Records released Quinn's fifth CD, Beneath the Quiet, which made the 'Best of 2003' list at Backroads Music.com. It's currently in rotation on Morning Becomes Eclectic 89.9 KCRW with Nic Harcourt in Los Angeles, XM Satellite Radio and Radioio.com. In 2004 Ensoul was released by Orison Records with the song Stand By The River With Me being featured in the movie Americanese, and A Simple Kind Of Life featured on a compilation called Luna, along with other artists Moby, Damien Rice and Chris Botti. The Great Unfolding and A simple Kind Of Life also received much air play on KCRW. In 2005 and 2006 Quinn was recording and touring the world with Tracy Chapman playing the Tonight Show, the Today Show and Tavis Smiley, as well as writing and recording his seventh cd Becoming, which was recorded and mixed in part in St. Petersburg, Russia and Cour Des Loges, France. He's also composed numerous pieces for television and film, including the music for the launch of the UPN Network, the Roseanne Talk Show theme, Promos for CSI New York and CSI Miami as well as the opening title song for the film Sub Down called Saving Rain, featuring Stephen Baldwin and Gabrielle Anwar. He's also written many compositions for the top Music Library companies that can be heard on television, film and radio around the world every day. His recent projects include touring the world playing his unique drum/percussion kit with various artists, supporting his latest cd release Becoming, as well as writing and recording his eighth cd TBD.
