Incubus, James Taylor, Ian Moore. Intense music rich in harmony vocals and guitar work. Genre crossing collection includes songs of spiritual connection, struggle and love. 10 MP3 Songs ROCK: Acoustic, FOLK: Power-folk Details: Alan's 2004 release, "Down On My Knee" is a powerful collection of music. It has been called "aggressively inspirational" and "intimate and non-contrived." This is music from the heart of one man, with songs of spiritual struggle to connection and love. The CD opens with 4 part vocal harmony performed A Capella, and the song "No Getting Over You" features eight part vocal harmony, all performed by Alan. The electric guitar solos feature Alan harmonizing with himself with a melodic flair reminiscent of the band Boston, and the title track "Down On My Knee" has a slow grinding blues vibe that has been compared to Ian Moore. He performed all vocals and all instruments (except for bass guitar by David McIntire on 5 of the tracks) and wrote the project himself. Performing in the Southeastern circuit for over 15 years, Alan has been the guitar player and singer for several southeastern bands and is a favorite in the studio for his tasteful guitar work and his uncanny ability to vocally harmonize with anyone, mimicing inflection and vibrato. Alan has spent the last 8 years performing acoustic solo shows playing popular new and old songs, and his innovative, powerful originals. He has developed a reputation and following for his heartfelt and talented musical performances. Not only does Alan have the respect of his fellow musicians and his fans, he has been recognized by Taylor Guitar Company as a professional musician and has had his heavily used, trademark red jumbo Taylor 615 guitar custom altered by Taylor to his specifications. "Down On My Knee" is an assortment that has appealed to a wide variety of audiences. Join us! Go to alanlynesfor more info.
