The album features over 60 minutes of original music written, produced and programmed by Jacob Todd. Minimal downtempo breaks fuse with edgy progressive house and melodic riffs float along to capture a unique mood. Collaborations with respected vocalists Kelly Noland and Jillian Kiggins further enhance the album, leading to an eclectic showcase. Jacob has been djing for six years and began producing electronic dance music in 2002. Jonathan Lises M-Theory Records released Jacobs first single entitled Nothing Is Real in 2004. Dubbed "the Photek of progressive breaks" by Meat Katie for its "solid rhythm, clever programming, and rocking beats," Nothing is Real was featured on both Anthony Pappa's Balance CD and John Digweed's Kiss 100 radio show. His follow-up record "The Metaphysics of Paper" was released on 3 Beat Breaks later that year and was again featured by John Digweed on his Kiss 100 radio show. Nick Warren then chose the Aural Imbalance remix of Jacobs Somehow to be included on his Shanghai compilation for Global Underground. Jacob established his record label Emote Music in 2006 in an effort to expand his musical reach.
