powerful compositions engulfed with lyrical melodies and curative messages for the sick and hungry of the world seeking truth with an angelic voice that pulls raw emotion from any heart experiencing her light and life 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Political Folk, FOLK: like Ani Details: Kathleen Coffee is an Appalachian folk singer/songwriter stemming from Athens, West Virginia. Kathleen grew up in a small country town outside of Athens where, on Sundays, she'd sit in church pews and listen to her mama play piano. The little earth child was always seen tapping her little feet and humming to old church hymns. Throughout all of her school years and even through college, Kathleen started reveal to the public her true passion: singing. Despite receiving two English degrees and a minor in journalism, she began to notice beyond all how her voice moves the hearts and minds of audiences, and she has finally accepted her purpose. From warming up atmospheres of homes, churches, festivals, art conferences, songwriting workshops, stages, and coffee houses around the Appalachian region, Ms. Coffee is giving her gift to anyone who will listen. She carries an ever-changing sound with her as a multi-instrumentalist and is sure to entertain an audience with her witty, free-spirit. As the world evolves, so will this young, talented female musician. Coffee stands firmly beside her drive of showing people the truth that they deserve: It is only through music, she says, that they will listen. Her song-writing is often likened to hints of Bob Dylan, Joni Mitchell, Devon Sproule, Tori Amos, and Ani DiFranco. Yet, her message and music are one of a kind. Kathleen finds fulfillment as an entertainer doing gigs for benefits, non-profit organizations, festivals, faith-based gatherings, and well,... .. anyone really. In fact, she loves to play in the most "decentralized" locations. Her dream gig is to play for terminally ill children. Wait patiently, kick your shoes off, and see Kat Coffee shine as part of the core spirit of the ever creative Appalachia region as she sweeps across this world, opening minds and healing the hearts of nations.
