Mostly traditional Celtic folk music with some vocal harmonies and a mixture of traditional and modern instruments including folk harps, concert harp, electric and acoustic guitars, electric bass guitars, bowed psaltery, mountain dulcimer, bodhran and mor 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Celtic Folk, FOLK: Traditional Folk

Details: This is a mostly instrumental album with a smattering of vocal pieces. Traditional music blends very well with modern compositions from the group themselves. This album contains the six tunes from the very first MicheMalou demo-album with the same title. It was recorded in the summer of 2001 and released in October of that year. In 2008 they went back over the old recordings and preserved all of the harp parts but replaced some of the guitar and bass parts and re-mixed the songs to give them a better sound. Vocals have been added to "Luegit vo Brg und Tal". Four new additions to this album are "Farewell", "Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded", "Suo Gan" and "The Cliffs of Dooneen". Thomas Moores Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded is given a vocal harmony treatment. Suo Gan, which is a traditional Welsh tune and was used in the Soundtrack to the movie Empire OF The Sun, benefits from an interesting mix of instrumental and vocal work. One final 'new' addition to this album is Turlough O'Carolan's "Blind Mary". This was the very first track that MicheMalou recorded back in April 2000. People who are interested in Steeleye Span should consider this download.
