The following is a review of Croonin' Blue by a reputable theatre and music critic: "Croonin' Blue is the kind of recording that will take up frequent residence on your CD player. Paul McQuillan's vocals have a totally smooth and seductive charm, but there's real feeling underneath, and it's a killer combination. The songs range from Hoagy Carmichael and George Gershwin through Jimmy Webb and Neil Diamond; McQuillan provides for everyone. Add the stylish keyboard work of Marek Norman and you've got a package I can recommend to you without any hesitation." - Richard Ouzounian Toronto Star Theatre Critic / CBC Radio Host of "Say It With Music"
