Details: Paul has been playing guitar since his high school days. He currently calls Hummelstown, PA home, in fact, he was born and raised there. His family moved to Bel Air, MD for a few years but after graduating high school he moved back to H-town, got a job, and kept dreaming of recording an album someday. Well, after 30-some years - someday is here! The album is a collection of tunes Paul has written from the early 1970s' to the present. During those years he had only played them on an acoustic guitar so it is really great to hear them with a full band behind them. Jim Orr, who played keyboards and programmed the drums and other instruments on the CD, is Paul's best friend from high school in Bel Air, Maryland. They are from the Class of '72 which doesn't exactly make them spring chickens but they aren't fossils either. Jim is playing in the Baltimore-Washington DC area with two bands that he formed. The Persuaders are a well established and respected band in the Baltimore rhythm and blues scene and The Pan American Rhythm Project is a band he formed in order to delve into the music of Latin America. Make sure you check these bands out if you are in The Baltimore-DC area!
