Dear Internet Marketers & Entrepreneurs, It's definitely a forgotten yet effective marketing method...personal name branding I mean. The internet marketer and online business own of today's world have totally started to over look this very important method of making more sales. Now a day, people look more towards getting visitors to their site any way they can and adding people to their lists. Don't get me wrong. Both of those things are very important as well. Especially building your optin list. But, what happen to branding yourself? What happen to making it so almost everyone online in your field knows you by name and can associate your products to YOU personally. This is what most people are, in fact looking to do, they've just gotten side tracked with the Free advertising boom that's going on right now...and has be for a year or so. Branding your personal name, not your product or website name but YOUR personal name can do more then build more sales online. It can also help to get you recognized for what you do or have done. You could find yourself being invited to speak at conferences, seminars, on teleconference calls and even start to charge upwards to $200.00 US an hour for YOUR consulting services. Imagine that, you up on the stage or you on the speakers end on the call. It could happen. But, people online today that are trying to pulling some cash are just flat out forgetting the importance of personal name branding. It's become such a forgotten thing that most people even stopped talking about it and teaching people HOW to go about it. It's the truth too. Most people online just don't know HOW to start name branding themselves. Presenting The New And Easy To Use Name Branding Syndicator ! Well...no more need to worry about that any more. I've come up with a new piece of software that will literally let you place your content, any content, all of the web worldwide and with in only seconds. Picture this! If people know who you are, they'll buy (in most cases) just because YOUR name is on the product. Personally. I found that my sales started to skyrocket the more I became known online.
