Chosen as the "Album of the Year" by the 2004 DIY Music Festival. Underground pop and melodic rock full of hooks and melodies you'll be humming tomorrow. 10 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, POP: Power Pop Details: Beth Thornley is earning a reputation as a profound songwriter in the underground pop world. Recognized for inventive melodies and intelligent lyrics, her songs keep the listener intrigued from beginning to end. Releasing her self-titled disc independently in early 2003, Beth's music has Hollywood taking note. Her songs can be heard on episodes of The Chris Isaak Show, The New Ride with Josh and Emily, the CBS film It Must Be Love, on the new DVD releases of Dawson's Creek: Season 2 and Roswell and in the upcoming CBS movie Book of Ruth. Beth was named a top 10 finalist in the rock category in the 2003 USA Songwriting Competition. Her album has been chosen as the Album of the Year by the DIY Music Festival 2004. Compared to Sheryl Crow, Aimee Mann and Beth Orton by writers such as Bruce Brodeen of Not Lane Recordings, Beth's sound has been called, "pop with modern rock wrapped in a package of addicting hooks. Her music is filled with a delightful and most serious commitment to making things interesting at every turn." The Alabama raised musician broke away from traditional music training determined to develop her own sound. Raiding the record collection of her best friend's brother as a young teen, Beth listened to everything from The Beatles and Bowie to The Police and Pretenders. What began to take shape was a passion for lyrical storytelling accentuated with pop hooks and unexpected twists. Beth is creating more material and playing in various clubs through out southern California. Keep informed of all Beth's activities at beththornley.com.
