Details: "A compelling set of pipes and attitude to spare" - Steve Smith, Time Out New York "Lee Ann Westover's sly, edgy lead vocals ride atop a chiming cushion of close harmony" - Terry Teachout, Wall Street Journal Arts Critic "Slyly funny lyrics sung with infectious warmth" - OffOffOff.com From Time Out NY: "Stylish singer Lee Ann Westover is best known for her work as lead singer for cabaret-pop combo the Lascivious Biddies, and has also lent her voice to Strange Cargo and the Camaros." From Joe's Pub: "Lee Ann Westover is best known as the lead singer of a string of cult bands based out of New York: The Lascivious Biddies, Strange Cargo, and the Camaros. Equal parts sincere, snarky, original and interpreted, her playful style incorporates elements of everything from pop to grunge to Broadway. She's just as likely to cover a 80's Synthpop classic as she is to belt out a Cole Porter number. A gifted songwriter, Lee Ann's work has been featured in several films screened all over the world, including the Sundance, Venice and Tribeca Film festivals. "Famous," from The Lascivious Biddies' album Get Lucky, was honored in the John Lennon Songwriting Competition [in what year?]. In the early 2000's, she created a segment for the modern pop musical revue 8x10, which debuted at the famed New York Theatre Workshop (Rent, Bright Lights Big City) alongside work by Norah Jones and Jesse Harris."
