Spending almost three years on its creation, Envy is Blind is happy to finally release their last album into the world. With twelve tracks of genre-bending music, lyrics that challenge the listener confront their fears head-on, and an overall aesthetic thats both progressive and accessible, The Electro-Imaginary needs to be heard by every listener of dark electronic music. Formed in 1999, Envy is Blind is Mikael Poggenburg and Nemo Gannon. Heres what some people have said about Envy is Blinds 2005 album Evolve: "While there is no limit to the amount of electronic artists floating around these days, some are working towards expanding that niche further. Envy is Blind is such an outfit where music and art coalesce into a realm of EBM modernist artwork." - Starvox * * * "EIB plays an intense blend of EBM and Industrial music, with distorted vocals... Lyrically, the songs are all intense, dark, pointed (and occasionally political). One thing you can be sure of, these tracks are all very, very danceable." -Synthpop * * * "Definitely could be a contender for best new industrial act in the future. The band is totally unique and creative with their own original industrial music combined with EBM." -Sideline People who are interested in VNV Nation Seabound should consider this download.
