"Garrett Fisher, a star of Seattle's new music scene who has been deeply influenced by Japanese Noh theater and Chinese opera." The New Yorker 16 MP3 Songs CLASSICAL: Contemporary, CLASSICAL: Musical Theater Show all album songs: Stargazer Songs Details: Acclaimed by The New Yorker as "a star of Seattle's new music scene who has been deeply influenced by Japanese Noh theatre and Chinese opera," Garrett Fisher brings together a collective of diverse artists and performers that challenges the boundaries of music, movement and theater. Garrett Fisher's music combines pop, classical, and such influences as Indian and Japanese musical traditions and is written for such instruments as harmonium, koto, gongs, vocalists, as well as recorded rhythms and electric guitar. His operas are haunting, intuitive, driving, and mathematical, sometimes narrative and at other points abstract; they blend raga-like improvisation with highly structured ensemble work. Layered with masks, movement, acting, and words, these full evening pieces defy categorization.
