Barry Finnerty, former guitarist with Miles Davis, Brecker Brothers, and the Crusaders, brings his melodic virtuoso guitar playing to a new electronic groove-based style of jazz. 12 MP3 Songs JAZZ: World Fusion, ELECTRONIC: Funk Details: Guitarist Barry Finnerty, who is known for his work with Miles Davis (The Man With The Horn), the Brecker Brothers (Heavy Metal Bebop), and the Crusaders (Street Life), premiered his new musical concept. TRAZZ, at the Aalener Jazzfest in Aalen, Germany, in November 2002. "Outstanding guitar playing in a hip ultramodern electronic setting" (live review) TRAZZ! (Trance Jazz) is an electronic, groove-based style of music featuring Barry's virtuoso melodic guitar improvisations combined with the flowing rhythmic tapestries he creates with the Yamaha RS-7000, a state-of the art sequencer/sampler machine that has almost 6000 sounds and patterns to choose from! "I wanted to play a style of music that felt contemporary to me," Finnerty said in a recent interview for a German paper, "and that incorporates jazz in a way that people who really don't understand or appreciate or even enjoy the way jazz is usually played...let's face it, most of the world...could relate to it. I don't want to lock myself into rigid arrangements and complicated compositions, I've done enough of that in my career. TRAZZ is not based on preconceived structures, it's based on two of my favorite things in music, GROOVE and FLOW. The grooves on the RS-7000 sound so hip, that they inspire me to create all kinds of little melodic and rhythmic ideas that spring from the magic of the moment. And I really enjoy that. It feels good and fresh, it's something that's happening right then, and I think the audience really got into it too." A live track recorded at the concert in Aalen is included on TRAZZ! (Trance Jazz), along with 11 all-digital studio tracks that mix styles as diverse as world beat, Euro-dance, smooth jazz, electronic and funk, all topped off by the tasty, soulful, and inspired playing of one of the best guitarists you will ever hear.
