Details: during a break, at a gig-one night, I was talking, with a band member, and I, remember that conversation! He nailed-it,he said,"Ya might,get tired,even burned-out doin' this, but the music, will probably, always be in your, blood". I thought about it, then realized, if you look at, what-ever the msg, is, that you're trying to send, and really believe, in that-msg, then you have the opportunity, to see it, in a different way! I think that, service, to my own, creator, higher power, God, (what-ever, you want to call it), is one of the reasons, that I still write music! Meditation, and service, really help a lot! Frustration, yeh,, I've been there, more times-than, Not! I want-to, share a quick one with you, I was, just sittin'round listenin' to music, on a local radio station, one night, I thought, there sure are a lot of good songs out there! In a way, it was kind of depressing, I started thinking too much, about the competition,(not a good idea!)anyway,I'd thought about,quiting,no more-music,guitar,the whole thing.I was,in one of those-moods,I guess. Then, like-out of nowhere, my song, "I Know A Little Bit," came on the radio,I thought,, must be the CD-player? (must have left-it on random,or something!),Nope,, as the song finished playing, the guy, on the radio, mentioned the title, my name, and made, a comment, or two, about the song, I thought, Wow, how cool is that, I remember how excited, I was! But, before that, I was on the flip side,remember,just one of those moods! True-story,,and ,I think,I learned something about myself that night, and so,, (don't ya jus-love, happy endings)! Thank you, for this opportunity, to share with you!! Greg...
