Master drummers from West Africa, Brazil and Europe produce mesmerizing percussion delights 12 MP3 Songs WORLD: World Traditions, WORLD: African Details: Master drummers like Mustapha Tettey Addy, Aja Addy and Dudu Tucci have built a growing reputation, not only for their timeless recordings but also for intense concert performances, for their work as percussion teachers, and for the ability to pass on cultural traditions. Especially during the last couple of years they have extended their activities to countries like Japan, the UK and Italy, gaining respect and appreciation far beyond a small circle of percussion aficionados. While the Ghanians, Mustapha Tettey Addy and his nephew Aja Addy, continue to track down the paths of their own heritage, Dudu Tucci and newcomers like Nyanyo Addo extend the boundaries by picking up new ideas, unlikely instruments or influences from different cultures. Both, the reinterpretations of ceremonial festivities and the new sound experiments have led to a variety of results, which have been passionately observed and edited by the experts in rhythm - Weltwunder Records.
