The Spring Framework is the de-facto leading open source agile enterprise Java meta-framework and serves as an alternative to using J2EE/Java EE. With the release of Spring Framework 3.x, Spring continues its phenomenal growth in adoption according to Evans Data below. For organizations of all sizes, 47 responded that they use Spring today. 73 of all organizations responded that they use Spring or plan to use Spring within two years. 83 of organizations with 500 or more developers are using Spring today. This is further confirmed by preliminary results from a 2008 Java Trends Survey compiled by The ServerSide, which shows a 78 adoption of Spring.
