This is an impressive resource, which will delight young learners and make adult listeners tap their fingers and sing along with their children. Luvin' My Numbers was produced by PIMOSH Tutorial Mentoring Services, headed by Patrina S. Reddick, MSW, to meet the needs of struggling students growing up in urban communities. PIMOSH has worked with over 700 students since its conception in 2001, and over 85 of referrals come in for math at the basic elementary level. In order to understand math concepts, students must understand that each set of math facts is built on mastering a simple set of skills, and these skills are consistently built upon as the math gets harder. If a child fails to grasp the basic concepts, the likelihood of success is minimal. When Ms. Reddick approached Nathaniel Gay, music producer with the idea, he was immediately interested in working with the children. The Live DVD Recording will be filmed and edited by Robb Blocker, Communications Director for Cooperative Arts Magnet High School, and owner of Righteous Music Media, LLC. Mr. Gay and Mr. Blocker alike, bring much experience and expertise to the Luvin My Numbers project. It is the first in a series of unique, fun, and educational CD's, tools and resources designed specifically with the urban student in mind.
