And it was his song-writing experience, while serving as the Ambassador of FUN for the highly successful Southwest Airlines, that brought him to understand how fun words and catchy music, combined with life affirming messages can change the way people think about themselves, their circumstances and others around them. What you'll immediately notice about the Family Songs is whether the "message" in a song is from a child to another child, a child to parent, or a parent to child ... the messages are ALL written in the "first person", making it easy for the listener to see themselves actually doing the positive things, the fun things, the caring things that are consistent with being happy. Over time, through the principles of Preview and Repetition, these positive attributes and behaviors can become part of one's every-day routine, enhancing relationships and self-esteem. Dr. Don Michel, chairman of the TWU (Texas Women's University, Denton, TX) Music Therapy Department used some of Tony's songs in a research project studying the impact of fun songs on emotional states. Some of those involved in the experiment included out-placed executives from the Dallas/Fort Worth, TX metro-plex, as well as college students. After listening to 5 of Tony's songs, the results showed significant (positive) statistical changes in the emotional states of 100 of the participants! "Just ordered some Feel Good Songs and I just hope I can get them by Christmas time. Our children were raised with those songs ... and that's what they all want. We sing Stinking Thinking all the time. It changed our lives. Thanks for everything you do." - Donovan Davisson "All of Tony's Feel Good Songs give you a great message, and 'Do Something Different' is one of his best. The song tells you that if you aren't getting what you want in life, then try something different! My boys often sing parts of the Feel Good Songs around the house and I'm excited that they are learning and repeating these useful messages. "How many of us just continue doing the same things, yet expect different results? Start today to 'Do Something Different'." - Christopher Westra, lightisreal Tony has been intimately involved in helping business leaders connect with their employees, change corporate culture, and promote a healthy, productive environment in meetings and the workplace.
