A quirky 10 track cd of funky music from one of Ireland's most creative fiddlers, featuring new multilayered compositions as well as traditional tunes transformed with cool crosstunings and soundscapes. 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Traditional Folk, WORLD: Celtic Details: Described in the Irish Times as inhabiting the eccentric fringe of Irish music, the elliptical Caoimhín Raghallaigh orbits a different planet to most Irish fiddlers. This short CD consists of 10 quirky tracks: six brand spanking new pieces from his own imagination, alongside four novel interpretations of traditional tunes. Some tracks, like 'Fead an Iolar' and 'Dn do Shil', are straightforward - they feature Caoimhín playing solo hardanger fiddle, using weird and wonderful crosstunings to create a new ambience for these old tunes. 'The Old Waltz' and 'Wild Goose Chase' find him creating a new approach to presenting traditional tune forms, with a sense of soundscape and beauty. Other tracks, like 'its all about the rhythm of her toes' and 'the mole man of hackney', are multilayered creations of madness, a quirky and fun stereo abstraction. Caoimhín Raghallaigh is regarded as one of the most exciting and creative musicians in traditional music. His album 'Kitty Lie Over' with uilleann piper Mick O'Brien was named #1 Traditional Album of 2003 by Earle Hitchner in the Irish Echo. He has recorded, performed and collaborated with the likes of Iarla Lionird, The Waterboys, Liam Maonla and Breannán Begley. He performs happily in many combinations all over the planet.
