loves a good ghost story. And according to the National Archives, South Carolina has produced more of these treasures than anywhere else in the country. The rich folklore and history of this beautiful region has been passed along, orally, through plantation owners, Indians, former slaves, and others who have come to call the Grand Strand home. Books have since taken the lead in bringing these stories to the masses, and now, Ghosts and Legends returns some of the best tales back to the spoken word.

Naturally, these old stories evolve over time, with each storyteller adding their own special touches. I hope you enjoy this unique retelling, embellished with John Kilik's inspired sounds and original music, and

I thank you for continuing this Low Country tradition of sharing stories and for becoming a part of this living history yourself. -Oliver Holler Thank you very much: Russell Anderson, Bill Burroughs, Ben

Burroughs and the Horry County Historical Society, Brian Carter, Mark Chesenow, Ruth Cox, Seth Cox,

Gail DeMattio, Mary Droho, Doris Everidge, Becky and Jerry Flauto, Jill Fennel, Cliff Martin, Duke Mays,

Brock Moore, Matt Naylor, Derek Patton, Leonard and Jeanne Pickel, Rudy Diaz, Jeremy Spear, Lore

Spivey, Trent Spivey, Bobby Wood, Bob and Linda Zilla Much gratitude is given to the authors, past and present, who have captured the fantastic history and folklore of the Grand Stand, and preserved it within the pages of their works. Ghosts and Legends is a tribute, and in part, made possible by their efforts.

Hopefully, this production can become a small contribution in its own way to the continuation of these treasured stories. A Very Special Thank You To Our Family. Encouragement, enthusiasm, inspiration, Valentine cards, blood-sweat-and-tears, unconditional love, generosity and time. In other words, That which brings our dreams to reality. When visiting Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, see the live action stage production of Ghosts and Legends!
