Details: Austin, Texas -- Kevin Sekhani, having worked as the front man for such diverse bands as Radio Thieves, Two Minute Sinatra and Parade for the better part of two decades, has determined that the time is ripe for release of his first solo album. Sumner Street, a 13 song collection, was recorded, mixed, and mastered in only four days at Aerie Recording Studio in Austin, Texas. Collaborating with Kevin as co-producer is Mark Addison, who has produced and played with many notable artists, including Freedy Johnston, Bob Schneider, Ian Moore, and Guy Forsyth. Joining Kevin in the studio for the Sumner Street sessions is a host of Louisiana musicians including Andrew Duplantis (Son Volt, Jon Dee Graham), Blake Simon (Mike Dean Band, Back Bone Stew), Michael Lamendola (Apple Jane, Radio Thieves) and Tim Veillon (Radio Thieves, No Show Ponies). Rounding out the lineup is Kevins long time collaborator, Ty Hurless (Parade) as well as Michael Ramos (John Mellencamp, Patty Griffin, Los Lonely Boys) and Warren Hood (The Waybacks, Warren Hood The Hoodlums). Even Kevin's six year-old daughter contributed making her musical debut by providing background vocals on one track. Sumner Street is a rich, organic blend of alternative country-style Americana and pop. It is textured with fiddle, accordion and Dobro and showcases Kevin's Louisiana roots both musically and lyrically. The songs are further layered with every band members vocal harmonies. Evocative songs such as Carol Ann and Oilfield Tan (a nod to the Louisiana oilfield worker) are dripping with moss, delivering you right to the levee at Henderson Swamp, while Ballad of a Lonely Clown and Jimmy would feel at home on the Grand Ole Opry stage. "I just wanted to get in a room with old friends and make a record. We had such a great time playing and recording these songs, and we want to share them with everyone," says Kevin. ".I'm ready to play in your living room, at a grocery store grand opening, First Communion celebration or afternoon clean-up from last night's partywell, I'll only do that if I played the party the night before...
