These 15 songs were designed to help children learn about, use and develop their sensory processing. A wonderful CD for all kids! "Kids will wiggle, jiggle and giggle with delight. While they have fun moving to the music, their sensory processing will surely improve by leaps and bounds!" -Carol Stock Kranowitz, M.A. Author, The Out of Sync Child More about The KID Foundation: The KID Foundation, a Colorado public charity, focuses on research, education, and advocacy related to Sensory Processing Disorder (SPD). SPD is a complex disorder of the brain that affects developing children (and some adults). People with SPD misinterpret everyday sensory information, such as touch, sound, and movement, giving them a different experience of the world from everyone else. For example, some feel bombarded and overwhelmed by ordinary sensations. Some can perceive sensory information but can't interpret it correctly. Others seek out intense sensory experiences. This can lead to behavioral problems, difficulties with coordination, and many other issues. Children with SPD are often misunderstood and labeled as aggressive or clumsy. They frequently are socially isolated and have trouble in school. Effective treatment is available, but far too many children with SPD are misdiagnosed and not properly treated. The KID Foundation (the Foundation for Knowledge In Development) was founded by Lucy Jane Miller, Ph.D., OTR, in 1978 to help these children and their families. The foundation's goals include: *Increasing public and professional awareness of the scope and severity of Sensory Processing Disorder *Providing information and resources to families, educators, physicians, and other health care professionals *Supporting advocacy for and research on Sensory Processing Disorder To learn more please visit kidfoundation.org
