LYNNE TAYLOR DONOVAN - Introduction When it comes to thinking globally, perhaps no Canadian country artist is doing a better job of applying the term to a career than Lynne Taylor Donovan. Based out of the beautiful Okanagan Valley in British Columbia Canada, this talented and very attractive singer - songwriter is cultivating seriously appreciative audiences all around this planet, a planet that is getting smaller everyday. Number one singles in markets like Australia, France, and Holland, top ten hits in Scandinavian countries, Scotland, Italy and on U.S. indie artist driven broadcast networks, continue to signal that this recording artist has universal appeal. Distinctive, unique, talented, golden, terrific, and splendid..... those are just a few of the adjectives programmers use to describe Donovan's voice, sound and approach to making music. The reviews are consistently glowing and have sparked considerable interest from agents in all the aforementioned markets and countries. The singer has made up her mind that she's going to take her inspiration from all the positive comments she's received from around the world and keep the music moving forward. "I just know I'm itching to start working with the band. There's nothing I'd like better than to take this music in person to the people in the many countries around the world who have supported us. I don't see any reason why we won't be in the near future." Nor does anyone else who has been watching Lynne Taylor Donovan's career take shape over the last few years.
