He was born in Pittsburgh and has lived in Boston, Baltimore, and Columbus (Ohio) before settling below the Mason-Dixon Line. Chuck Bordelon - bass Chuck came from Louisiana with a bass on his knee. He's adept at several instruments, has played in bands before, and brings a great creative streak to the table. Steve DeVries mandolin, banjo, harmonica Steve is a recording artist in his own right, having two acoustic guitar albums under his belt. Branden Hickman - drums Branden might be the kid of the group, but he can play like Keith Moon or Ringo Starr, depending on the song. Great backbeat. Steady. Plus, he's single! Gary Rudinsky - lead guitar Ohio's favorite son (aside from John Glenn, all those presidents, and Woody Hayes) has been playing guitar for many years. He was an original member of the Human Beings in Youngstown many years ago. Plus, anyone who knows Boogie Weinglass can't be all bad, can he? This CD "Tin Can Town" is a slice of Americana that takes you on the road, then to a cool, dark, dive bar looking past the neon beer signs to the daylight of the world outside.
