Leftfield, all female, harmony led acoustic band - 'dark, gypsy folk tugging from one end, and an all out west-end musical tugging from the other'. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: like Ani, CLASSICAL: New Age Details: Invocal are a four piece female acoustic band that perform with cello, guitar, clarinet and four harmonious voices - described as having dark gypsy folk tugging from one side and an all out west end musical tugging from the other. Their songs tell tales of modern life - with caustic and bawdy humour, powerful and moving lyrics and (most days) expert musical prowess. Watching an Invocal show can be a bumpy ride - one minute you can be laughing out loud at songs that riotously celebrate lesbian life in straightsville, the next you might be reaching for a stiff drink as the songs begin tell stories of grave and personal issues such mental illness and broken hearts. Thankfully the girls never take themselves too seriously for too long once they hit on lifes dark side its never long before you are smiling again, or at least enjoying their creative use of expletives! The band hail from Northampton, a midlands town notable for its historical shoe industry and ... regular trains to London ... and have toured all over the UK and Republic of Ireland. They are enjoying a growing presence on the folk and acoustic scene, with followers favouring their genuine originality, humour, and great musicianship.
